Bargains for babies market

Lee-Anne Butler LA FEMME REPORTER

THE first Baby Bargains Market is to be held in Port Elizabeth on November 1.

The market will have good quality used and new baby items ranging from clothing, toys to furniture at prices which the organisers believe will be much more affordable than at regular retailers.

"Planning is going well and we have had a wonderful response. We now have more than enough items and we expect the market to be a huge success," said organiser Lauren Gush.

The organisers have collected baby items, from quality second hand items to items that are still brand new. Products include strollers, prams, compactums, car seats for all ages, baby carriers, cots, bedding, linen, decor items, clothing, shoes and much more.

"There will also be some stall holders who have baby products at the market so there will be loads of products to choose from. We have been very strict about the quality of products we have accepted so visitors can expect only the best at a discounted price," said Lauren.

There will also be a range of books about babies and pregnancy.

Lauren, and her sister Lee Wilson, first planned to hold the market after seeing it done in Australia.

"We will have a computer available for anyone who wants to purchase items over the amount of R600 so they can do internet banking, however for all other purchases we will only accept cash."

The innovative sisters now hope to have the market as a quarterly event in Port Elizabeth, and the next one is already planned for March.

"There really is a need for more affordable baby items and we will have products for newborn babies up until the age of three."

The Baby Bargains Market will be held at the Port Elizabeth Riding Club between 9am and 5pm on Saturday, November 1. For more information visit www.babybargainsmarket.co.za
